

Connecticut TIME Collaborative

Cohort IV Application

TIME COLLABORATIVE APPLICATION

Instructions: The Connecticut Center on Time & Learning (CCTL) and the Connecticut State Department of Education (CSDE) are pleased to announce a fourth cohort of the Connecticut TIME Collaborative. Districts must submit applications on behalf of school(s) seeking participation in the Connecticut TIME Collaborative. Please note that TIME Collaborative schools must maintain an active school improvement plan, consistent with CSDE guidance for low-performing schools.

TIME Collaborative Overview

The Connecticut TIME Collaborative is a multi-year investment in the development of high-quality and sustainable expanded learning time (ELT) schools. With support from the Ford Foundation, the TIME Collaborative launched in fall 2012 with nearly 40 schools from 11 districts in Colorado, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New York, and Tennessee. Through the Collaborative, schools leverage additional time to empower students with the knowledge, skills and experiences essential for college and career success. These schools will serve as national models for effectively expanding the traditional public school day and/or year in order to improve student achievement.

In Connecticut, the TIME Collaborative is a partnership between the CSDE, National Center for Time and Learning (NCTL), the Hartford Foundation for Public Giving, the Eastern Connecticut Community Foundation, the United Way of Meriden and Wallingford and COMPASS Youth Collaborative.

Opportunity to Participate in the TIME Collaborative

In fall 2012, CSDE collaborated with CCTL to bring the TIME Collaborative to a limited number of Alliance Districts. Since then, three cohorts of selected schools and districts have participated in an intensive design process to completely rethink their school day and year to expand opportunities for learning, enrichment, and collaboration to improve student achievement, engagement, and teacher effectiveness. The CSDE and CCTL are seeking additional districts and schools to form Cohort IV of the TIME Collaborative and begin the planning process this fall for possible implementation in fall 2016.

Each district selected to join Cohort IV commits to fully engage in an intensive planning process with a subset of its schools during the 2015-16 school year to create a re-engineered school schedule that expands the conventional 6 ½ hour, 180 day school year by a minimum of 90 additional hours for all students (to the equivalent of a 7-hour school day). Another option that schools could pursue is optimizing their current time structure and redesigning their schedule by addressing the seven key components (list here). In return, district and school teams will receive expert technical assistance and coaching at no cost on how to rethink their school day to add learning time, schedule and staff an expanded day or year, minimize costs and build a sustainable model, and generate support for the implementation of their new day. Selected districts will also receive Ford Foundation capacity-building funds to help cover costs during the planning year. Potential uses of funds include dedicated staff to oversee and support participating schools, consulting support on scheduling, blended learning and other ELT planning activities; and substitutes for coverage of teachers to attend planning sessions. In February 2016, participating districts will submit their schools' ELT implementation plans and qualified applicants will be approved to move forward with implementation using a combination of federal, state, and local resources, including Alliance District funds.

TIME Collaborative Requirements for ELT Implementation

Redesigned school schedules must create a minimum of a 7 hour school day for all students and integrate cost-lowering strategies such as renegotiated collective bargaining agreements, staggered teacher schedules, partnerships and blended learning. In addition, ELT redesign plans must incorporate the seven elements of high-quality expanded-time schools:

- Focused school-wide priorities based on multiple data sources
- Rigorous academics that include challenging ELA, math, science, and social studies courses
- A minimum of 120 minutes each week Individualized academic intervention or acceleration for every student

- Frequent data cycles to improve instruction and 60 minutes each week of data analysis time for teachers
- Targeted teacher development and a minimum of 60 minutes per week of collaboration
- A minimum of 90 minutes each week of engaging enrichments for all students
- Strong school culture and climate with appropriate supports for all students

What Will TIME Collaborative Districts and Schools Receive?

Selected districts and schools will join a network of educators from across the country, all of whom are working toward implementing high-quality, sustainable ELT in order to significantly improve student achievement. Participating districts and schools will receive the following:

Technical Assistance—CCTL will provide deep technical assistance on effective implementation at no cost to districts and schools including:

- School planning and implementation support based on school interest and/or need may include up to six series full-day training sessions for school leadership teams and/or individualized school-based coaching and scheduling support. School teams will benefit from CCTL’s tools and resources including case studies, sample schedules, videos on effective practices, webinars on key topics and opportunities to tour high-performing expanded learning time schools and learn from experienced practitioners.
- District support that focuses on building the capacity to lead and manage the initiative, support schools in change management, address ELT operational needs, promote instructional improvement, facilitate community outreach, monitor progress, and support schools in continuous improvement.

Capacity-Building Grants—Participating districts will receive Ford Foundation capacity-building grants. These grants will allow districts to cover costs related to launching the TIME Collaborative and support schools during planning and implementation. Potential uses of funds include dedicated staff to oversee and support participating schools, consulting support on scheduling, blended learning and other ELT planning activities; and substitutes for coverage of teachers to attend planning sessions.

ELT Network Access—TIME Collaborative districts, school leaders and faculty will gain access to an online network to share resources such as schedules, budgets, program plans, and implementation approaches across the five leadership states. The network will feature web-based seminars and discussions on challenges, strategies and solutions that arise during ELT planning and implementation.

What Will TIME Collaborative Districts Need to Do?

Selected districts must commit to make ELT a high priority and work closely with CCTL to implement high-quality ELT models in a sub-set of its schools. Specifically, participating districts will need to:

Select Planning Schools: Identify schools to work with CCTL through a year-long technical assistance and planning process to develop school redesign plans that incorporate additional time (or a 7-hour day equivalent) per year for all students.

Identify Implementation Funds: Leverage state grants, flexible Title I set-asides (formerly SES) and Title IIa funds to effectively and sustainably expand the school day in participating schools. Note: Schools that effectively plan for non-monetary sustainability strategies may significantly reduce monetary expenses.

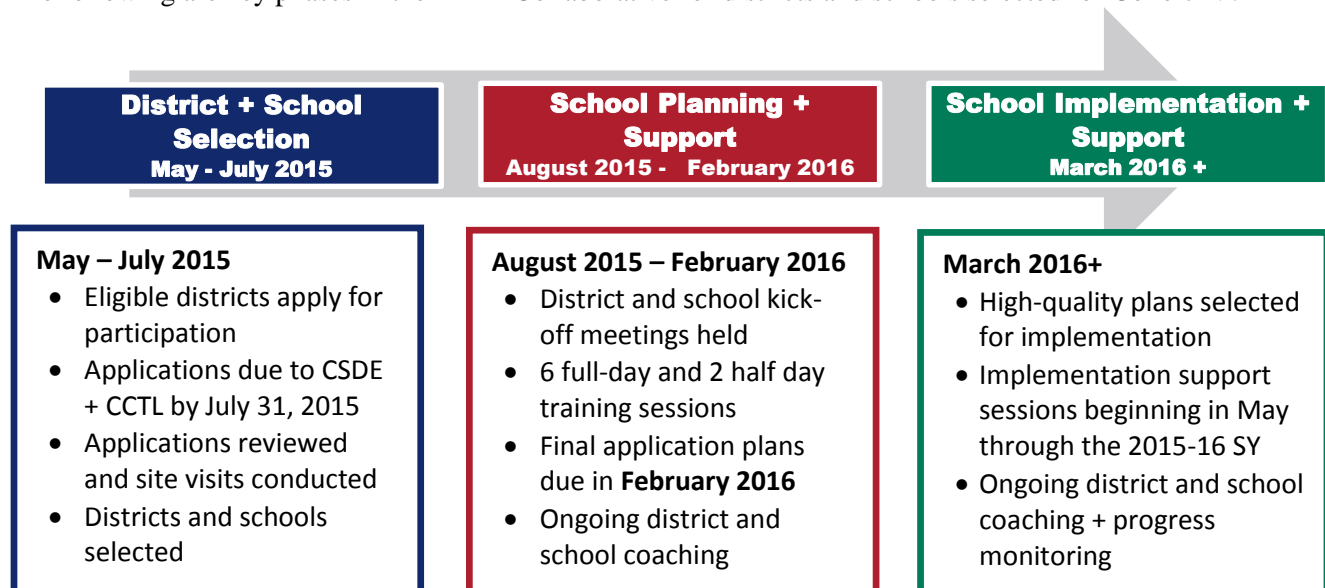

Support Schools throughout Planning and Implementation: Work closely with CCTL and schools to identify and troubleshoot operational challenges that arise with expanded learning time; support approved schools as they implement key components of their redesign plans; work with the collective bargaining unit to negotiate a new contract or side letter covering a school’s ELT plan.

TIME Collaborative Selection Criteria + Timeline

Working in collaboration with CSDE and our state partners, CCTL will select up to four additional districts to join Cohort IV of the TIME Collaborative. CCTL will select districts that demonstrate the capacity to succeed in this ambitious reform effort and will use the following criteria to evaluate districts and targeted schools based on their application and interviews with key district and school staff:

School Demographics and Leadership <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Schools within Alliance Districts • School leadership is invested in expanding the school day, has a track record of successful school improvement efforts, and can share evidence of past efforts to build support among staff, students, families, and key partners
District and Community Support for ELT <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Evidence of broad commitment to expanding learning time
Plan and Rationale for Targeting Schools <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Evidence of a strong rationale for selecting schools
District Capacity to Execute the TIME Collaborative <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • District views expanded learning time as a priority as evidenced by commitment of staff and resources to support the planning process • Track record of aligning financial commitment to district priorities • Stable and effective district leadership • Recent successful track record in school improvement efforts, such as teacher effectiveness and collaboration, school leadership development, data systems to drive instructional improvement, and individualized instruction
