DESCRIPTION

Our program includes gifted, talented and highly motivated young people. The Coordinator of Special Education and School Psychologist work with parents, teachers, guidance personnel, other school district personnel and off-campus program coordinators to provide appropriate enrichment and acceleration options. For example, our Board of Education reimburses a portion of tuition for off-campus studies after students complete the program.

In our tutor program, students in Grades 7 through 12 work under teacher supervision to provide enrichment or remedial instruction to students in Grades 1 through 6. For example, students in Grade 4 created illustrated fiction last year and read their literature to classmates for extra credit.

This year, an intern coordinates an accelerated mathematics program with our algebra teacher for three grade 7 students. We communicated with a nearby district to learn about their distance learning program which helps prepare students for advanced placement high school mathematics coursework.

Our students in Grades 9 through 12 prepare for advanced placement coursework, such as the University of Connecticut Cooperative Extension Program. For example, they study advanced placement chemistry, English, civics, western civilization and calculus for college credit. High school students develop responsibility by serving their community. For example, our gifted, talented or highly motivated students help others when they volunteer to work in the Project Out-Reach Program.

Fortunately, our program includes enthusiastic parents, educators, professionals and board members who work together to challenge the students. Our efforts focus on the individual aspirations of each gifted, talented and highly motivated student living and working in Bozrah.
