DESCRIPTION	Teachers provide enrichment and accelerated activities in the classroom for those students identified as gifted and talented. At the elementary level, students are challenged by receiving reading instruction at levels higher than their grade assignment. For example, we have 4th grade students who are receiving their literacy instruction at a 7th grade level. We began piloting the School Enrichment Model (Renzulli Model) at selected sites. At the middle school level, students have the opportunity to participate in the Classical Magnet Program. The primary goal of the Classical Magnet Program is to give students a foundation in the Classics that will allow them to better understand the contemporary world. The Classical Program is supported by seminars on classical materials prepared by St. Johns College in Maryland, and lectures to the students on related topics by professors. High school students also have the opportunity to participate in honors and/or advanced placement classes, the Greater Hartford Academy of the Arts and the Greater Hartford Academy of Math, Science and Technology.
