SUBJECT: Operational Memorandum #17C-06 and #15H-06
U.S. Armed Forces Family Supplemental Subsistence Allowance (FSSA) –
Excluded from Income Consideration

Since May 2001, the Department of Defense has paid certain members of the Armed Forces and their families a Family Subsistence Supplemental Allowance (FSSA). The FSSA is designed to bring a household's income up to 130% of the Federal poverty line and decrease the reliance on Food Stamps for affected members and their families. The amount of the FSSA, based on household size and income, may not exceed $500 per month. Previously, for purposes of Child Nutrition Programs (CNP) eligibility determination, the FSSA payments were counted as earned income for households. However, in Section 602 of the Ronald W. Reagan National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 2005, Public Law 108-375, Congress specified that in the event that counting the FSSA as income would put a family over the CNP income limits, the family must be considered eligible to receive CNP benefits. On January 6, 2006 Public Law 109-163 made FSSA permanent.

Therefore, in accordance with Public Law 108-375 and Public Law 109-163, the provision that any FSSA that a household receives must not be treated as income in determining eligibility for free and reduced price meals under any of the Child Nutrition Programs is permanent.
