

CREDITING SOUP

The meal pattern for the National School Lunch Program (NSLP) requires weekly servings of the five vegetable subgroups, including dark green, red/orange, beans/peas (legumes), starchy, and other. In addition to the five subgroups, the lunch meal pattern includes another category of “additional” vegetables that are required to meet the minimum weekly amounts for each grade group. “Additional” vegetables can come from any subgroup. For more information, see the Connecticut State Department of Education’s (CSDE) handout, Vegetable Subgroups, and the CSDE’s Menu Planning Guide for School Meals

Soups must meet specific requirements to credit toward the vegetables component. Vegetable soups made from scratch credit based on the actual amount of each vegetable subgroup per serving. Menu planners must document this information with a standardized soup recipe, based on the yields in the USDA’s Food Buying Guide for School Meal Programs. Recipes must contain at least 1/8 cup of vegetables per serving (the minimum creditable amount) to credit toward part of the vegetables component.

Only certain types of commercial vegetable soups credit toward the vegetables component. Lentil, pea, and bean soups credit as the bean/peas (legumes) subgroup. A 1-cup serving credits as 1/2 cup of legumes. All other allowable commercial vegetable soups credit only as “additional” vegetables. A 1-cup serving credits as 1/4 cup of “additional” vegetables.

Commercial beef barley, chicken or turkey noodle, and chicken or turkey rice soups do not credit toward any meal pattern component. The chart below lists allowable commercial vegetable soups.

Allowable Commercial Soups
“ADDITIONAL” VEGETABLES *	LEGUMES **
Minestrone Tomato Tomato with other basic components such as rice Vegetable (contains only vegetables) Vegetable with other basic components such as meat or poultry	Lentil Pea, e.g., split pea Bean, e.g., black bean, mixed bean
* Based on the Food Buying Guide , 1 cup of commercial vegetable soup credits as 1/4 cup of “additional” vegetables. Vegetable soup cannot credit toward any other subgroup unless the manufacturer’s product formulation statement documents the amount of each vegetable subgroup per serving.  Based on the Food Buying Guide , 1 cup of commercial lentil, pea, or bean soup credits as 1/2 cup of the beans/peas (legumes) subgroup.

To credit a commercial soup product differently from the yields in the Food Buying Guide, menu planners must obtain a product formulation statement (PFS) from the manufacturer stating the specific contribution of all vegetables toward the vegetable subgroups. The PFS must provide the information specified in the USDA’s Product Formulation Statement for Documenting Vegetables and Fruits.

Schools cannot use any other type of manufacturer product information such as sales literature or product specification sheets to document the meal pattern requirements for the vegetable subgroups. These materials do not provide the specific crediting information required on a PFS. The chart on the next page shows an example of product information that lists the vegetable subgroup contribution for each soup, but does not meet the documentation requirements for school nutrition programs.

This information is not a PFS, and does not provide the specific contribution of all vegetables toward the vegetable subgroups. For example, the company information indicates that tomato soup provides ½ cup of the red/orange vegetable subgroup. Based on the Food Buying Guide, 1 cup of commercial tomato soup credits as ¼ cup of “additional” vegetables. Tomato soup cannot credit toward the red/orange subgroup unless the manufacturer supplies a PFS with the appropriate crediting information.
