

HIV Prevention Education Webinar Series

*The Connecticut State Department of Education in Partnership with Answer at Rutgers University, Presents a
Webinar Series on HIV Prevention Education*

Audience: Curriculum Coordinators, Health Educators, Nurses, Family Consumer Science Teachers, and other Middle and High School level Health Professionals.

Dates: November 2, 16, and 30, 2011. Time: 4:00pm – 5:15pm

Cost: $25.00 for the series

November 2, 2011	November 16, 2011	November 30, 2011
Using Interactive Teaching Methods to Move Beyond “Just the Facts” for Effective HIV Prevention This webinar will review the latest research on effective teaching techniques and what teachers can do to help students protect themselves from HIV infection including skill-building exercises and cooperative group activities. Sample activities will be reviewed as well as the most current resources available to promote positive health behaviors. This interactive webinar will provide you with classroom activities that you can begin using immediately.	Teaching HIV Prevention in a Multi-Cultural Classroom Today’s students represent a wide range of cultural backgrounds which creates a richness in our classroom and can also present a challenge when it comes to teaching about HIV prevention education. This webinar will examine strategies for teaching about HIV prevention in ways that are culturally competent with a particular focus on promoting appropriate and relevant social norms.	Addressing Concerns about Teaching HIV Prevention in School: How to Build Partnerships within Communities Parent and community support is vital to the success of developmentally-appropriate HIV prevention education programs. Often HIV prevention education may be perceived as controversial. This webinar will provide strategies for teachers to build support for school-based prevention programs assist in responding to community concerns and provide effective strategies to engage parents and community members.

How to Register:

To register visit www.registereastconn.org/courses/view/id/8960.
Registration Deadline: Monday, October 24, 2011

Sponsored by:

