

CONNECTICUT 2012-13 SCHOOL CLASSIFICATIONS

This is a list of all Connecticut public schools and their school classification. The classification is based on how a school performed on key accountability indicators (e.g., test scores, graduation rates) as outlined in Connecticut's approved Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) flexibility request.

*Issued by the Connecticut
Department of Education
(CSDE); November 2013.*

Note: The U.S. Department of Education expects that all schools, including those without any students in grades tested by either the Connecticut Mastery Test (CMT) (grades 3 through 8) or the Connecticut Academic Performance Test (CAPT) (grade 10), will receive a school classification. To comply with this requirement, Connecticut analyzed district-wide data and applied the results of those analyses to schools without tested grades. The same rule was also applied in cases where the total number of reportable students in the tested grades within a school for either CMT or CAPT is less than 20. Statewide, there are 62 schools where this rule is being applied.
